Sophomore trip angers parents at board meeting

Faced with more than 30 concerned, sometimes angry, parents Monday night, Telstar Regional High School officials redefined the terms of the "punishment" or "alternatives" awaiting sophomores who refuse to go on their class's Outward Bound winter camping trip.

The parents had showed up at the SAD #44 Board of Directors meeting to protest sophomores being forced to go on the five-day trip, which is scheduled for the third week in March.

Earlier in the day Superintendent DeWane Craig had said that students who did not go on the trip would face five days of in-house suspension, working alone in five-by-three-foot cubicles.

As Telstar Regional High School Principal Ted Davis explained the alternative at the board meeting, however, the punishment had become three days of group work in a classroom and, perhaps, a book report.

By the end of the board meeting the three days had become two (due to transportation problems on the third day), and the parents appeared mollified.

"I should have used the word 'alternatives' instead of 'punishment,'" Mr. Davis said about his meetings with the sophomores. "I didn't mean 'in house' to refer to discipline. That was a statement I made that I shouldn't have."

Prior to this official clarification, the parents had demanded to know how school officials could force students to go on such an activity.

The issue was not the value of the program itself—a number of parents praised Outward Bound—but the school's presumption of authority.

"If you decide next year that it would be good for our kids to bust broncos or sky dive, will you tell us that we have to let them go?" asked Dick Haines, of Bethel.

Sandra Clement, of Andover, said she had called the state Department of Human Services about the matter. "I asked them if I took my daughter to the top of a mountain in the winter without her consent and forced her to live in a tent for five days, would it be considered child abuse. They said it would."

The fear that some children might not be up to the stress of such an experience concerned other parents.

"You know that my daughter has asthma," said Elizabeth Wilson, "but you say that she has to have a medical exam in order not to be punished for not going on the trip. She won't be on the trip. She won't be in school. And she will not be punished."

Health center gets new executive director

Paul Bray, of West Peru, has been chosen by the Northern Oxford Health and Service Council to be the new executive director of the Bethel Area Health Center. The council is the governing body of the health center. Mr. Bray replaces Shirley Powell, who resigned to take a health-care-related position in Augusta.

Mr. Bray received his bachelors degree in Psychology and a masters degree in Rehabilitation Counseling from Southern Illinois University. He has also completed post-graduate training in Family Studies, at Northwestern University, in Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Bray was formerly the executive director of a large Chicago medical/mental health clinic. He has consulted for community health clinics in Illinois, Michigan, Kentucky and Wisconsin. For the past three years he has functioned as business manager for his wife's medical practice as well as served as a family therapy counselor in conjunction with his wife's practice. His wife, Dr. Emily Bray, is a physician in Rumford.

Mr. Bray said he is both honored and challenged by his appointment to the executive director's post at the health center. His primary goal, he said, is to assist the center in providing the highest quality of care possible for residents of the Bethel area. Quality medical care and community outreach services to Bethel area residents was the standard under Mrs. Powell's direction, Mr. Bray noted, and he pledged to continue that high quality of care.

A foot of powder blankets Bethel

It was billed as "the storm skiers have been waiting for." And it lived up to its name.

After a day of warm temperatures Monday, a wet snow began in the evening and became drier and steadier throughout the night.

School was called off Tuesday, although local road crews had the streets cleared for the morning commute.

At the skiways, the snow was good news. "Beautiful stuff," enthused Jean Anton, at Mt. Abram Ski Slopes. "It's just perfect." She said, conservatively, there was 10 inches of new snow on the ground.

The skiers were not too far behind the plows. "We've got a lot in our parking lot today," Ms. Anton said, noting that the snowfall coincided with the skiway's weekly Tuesday, during which two can ski for the price of one.

At Sunday River Ski Resort, marketing director Wendie Gray said there was a foot of new snow, and it was fairly dry. She predicted the fresh blanket would bring renewed interest in skiing among day-trippers from the Portland area. She said they had been staying home, thinking the slopes were as bare as the streets of Portland. In fact, she noted, there was plenty of snow on the slopes prior to Monday night's storm.

Two Woodstock boards at loggerheads over clerk

The Woodstock Planning Board has voted to suspend its meetings until members can meet with the Board of Selectmen and attempt to resolve differences over the hiring of a clerk for the Planning Board.

Faced with board member Margaret Hand's resignation as secretary, the board had asked the selectmen for permission to hire a clerk, who would be paid out of Planning Board funds and fees collected from developers.

The clerk was necessary, board members argued, because the increased workload of the recently revitalized board made it impossible for a board member to also fulfill a clerk's role.

In addition to taking minutes at board meetings, the clerk would work a set number of hours a week on board paperwork. Members argued that the paperwork has increased significantly as the town is faced with more and more development proposals.

Real estate sales drop in '87 in most towns in Bethel area

Reversing a trend that began in 1984, the number of real estate transfers in the Bethel area declined in 1987. On the other hand, transfers in Oxford County were up by 203, for a total of 3,494, according to Gayla Pulkkinen, the county registrar of deeds. "We've had an extremely busy year," she commented.

Nevertheless, in the towns of Andover, Bethel, Gilead, Greenwood, Newry and Woodstock, the number of real estate transfers declined. For example, in Bethel there were 282 transfers last year, compared with a high of 272 in 1986. In Newry, home of Sunday River Ski Resort, there were 283 transfers last year, compared with 286 the year before.

In Greenwood—home of Mt. Abram Ski Slopes—the highest number of transfers was reached in 1985, with 139. Last year there were just 114 transfers of property. And in Woodstock there were 130 transfers in 1987, compared with 142 in the watershed year of 1986. (See complete listing of transfers in selected Oxford County towns in box.)

Does this mean the bloom is off the local real estate boom? Not according to Mary Gillies, owner of Gillies Realty, in Bethel. She said the lower number of transfers reflects both a stabilizing of the market as well as some residual shock from the October stock market crash.

"In the beginning of the year Bethel prices were getting ahead of the market," Mrs. Gillies explained. "This year has been one of acclimating. In the past, people were racing in to grab relative bargains." This resulted in people seeking quick turnovers for high profits. "It grabbed quite a bit of momentum and shot right past the market," she said. "Then there was the stock market crash. I think when people get their confidence back, real estate will be the investment of choice."

Mrs. Gillies noted that listed properties are still selling, but they're selling more slowly.

Mime show at Gould

Tony Montanaro, whose talents as a mime need no introduction to people in western Maine, will perform at Gould Academy this Thursday, Jan. 28. The performance, a one-man show called "A Mime's Eye View," will begin at 7:30 in Bingham Auditorium, and is open to the public at no charge.

Winter Wonderland Week scheduled for Feb. 5-11

The 3rd Annual Western Mountains Winter Wonderland Week—a week-long winter carnival throughout the Bethel recreation area of western Maine—will take place Feb. 5-11.

The eight-day program begins Friday, Feb. 5, with the showing of "Around the World in 80 Days" in the Sunrise Condominium Room at Sunday River Ski Resort.

The first ascent of the Hot Air Balloon Festival will take place Saturday, Feb. 6, with scheduled flights from Sunday River Ski Resort towards Bethel taking place each day through Thursday, Feb. 11.

Bill Hoffman's Demo Days at Sunday River will take place Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 6 and 7. Bill will have the latest in Rossignol skis in front of South Ridge Center. Heineken will be sponsoring free sleigh rides throughout the week, beginning Sunday, Feb. 7.

A special flavor to this year's festival is a different international night at local dining establishments. Saturday night, the 6th, will be Italian Night at The Only Place Restaurant, in West Bethel, followed by a skating party. Sunday night is Cajun Night at The Bethel Inn and Country Club, followed by Chinese Night at Mothers' Restaurant Monday night. Tuesday is Mexican Evening at Martha's Restaurant, and a German Buffet will be served at The Sudbury Inn Wednesday night. Thursday, the week's international delights winds up with French Cuisine at the Fall Line Restaurant at Sunday River.

COMSAT selling Andover facility

COMSAT, which 2½-years-ago announced it would close its station in Andover, will sell the satellite ground station to MCI Communications Corp.

A COMSAT spokesman in Washington told The Citizen the Federal Communications Commission approved the sale earlier this month. Spokesman Rick Wasser said he expects the sale to be completed by the end of the month. He did not disclose the sale price.

While MCI will take over most of the facility, COMSAT will lease back a portion of the property for its telemetry, tracking and control operation (TT&C), used with spacecraft flights. Seven persons are employed in the TT&C operation and their jobs will be secure, Mr. Wasser said.

MCI, which is the second-largest company in long-distance communications, intends to use the facility as a ground station to connect north America with Europe for the transmission of voice, data and TV signals. A spokesman said the Andover station, plus a newly constructed station in Yakolt, Washington, will give the company a worldwide capability. The company last year had sales of $3.59 billion.

Andover officials, who were forced to raise taxes as COMSAT property (such as the famous horn antenna) was taken off the tax rolls, are optimistic that MCI will build up the facility and add more personal property to the tax rolls.

Opinions

Bethel gets a breathing spell

For most Bethel area residents—except possibly those trying to sell property—the lead story in this week's Citizen will probably be good news.

The story, based on information from the office of the Register of Deeds and local real estate executives, shows that the pace of real estate activity in the Bethel area has slowed. It seems that this slowdown in real estate sales does not mean that the bottom has fallen out of the local real estate market, but only that the frenetic, and increasing, pace of the past few years has subsided.

This is good news because it gives local towns a chance to organize their defenses against pell mell growth. Every town in the Bethel area has felt threatened by the rate of growth, and every town has been working to get into the driver's seat so that it can steer growth and development rather than be bulldozed by it.

Greenwood jumped out in front of everyone else by imposing a moratorium on multi-family development. But that is not a solution—just a time-out—and it is about to expire. Bethel enacted a site plan review ordinance and is hiring a paid assistant for the Planning Board; Newry accepted a Comprehensive Plan and set up a committee to review all town ordinances; Woodstock and Greenwood are devising comprehensive plans, and Andover is seeking federal money for community development.

As development pressures continue—even at a reduced pace—area towns may find that the plans thus far enacted and the planning thus far envisioned are not enough. Every comprehensive plan thus far put together by local residents stresses the need for keeping the Bethel area towns small, friendly, agricultural, green, unhurried, unstrained. It may be that stronger ordinances will have to be enacted to keep these expectations from disappearing. It may be that imaginative legislation will have to be enacted to preserve great, and endangered, tracts of land through non-developmental covenants in exchange for tax concessions, or through outright governmental purchase.

While there is now some calm time before a renewed real estate frenzy hits the area, residents must work even harder to preserve the future that everyone envisions. bfw

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Central Maine Power Company is committed to providing a dependable supply of electricity to its customers at the lowest possible cost. This is our responsibility as a public utility.

Meeting our customers' needs for electricity in a manner consistent with their other needs and concerns is a complex challenge. This is most evident when increased demands for power, requiring additional power lines, substations or generating plants conflict with the concerns we all share for the environment. In most cases, this requires a compromise that maintains a system capable of providing a dependable supply of electricity and includes some additional costs to minimize the impact on the environment and people living near the facility.

Today, most of our electricity comes from CMP's large generating stations: the old-fired W. F. Wyman Station in Yarmouth, Maine Yankee, and a number of hydro stations on Maine's major rivers. Purchases from Canada and private power producers in Maine are also important sources of power and will become even more important in the future.

CMP believes that energy management and conservation have vital roles in the development of a reliable, economic and diversified supply of power for the future. Implementing energy saving measures provides for better use of existing generating facilities, lower future costs, less environmental impact and allows customers more flexibility in controlling their electric bills.

To insure an adequate, economic supply of energy to our customers, we must seek out and analyze all sources and methods of providing that power. We intend that energy management and conservation will meet its potential, and we will continue to offer cost-effective programs that will minimize the need for new generation sources.

Time-of-Use Rates for industrial, commercial and high-use residential customers offer an opportunity for them to lower their cost of power by shifting use to off-peak hours when electricity is the cheapest to produce and the price is less. Interruptible Rates for industrial customers offer them an opportunity to lower their costs by agreeing to remove load from the system at times of exceptionally high use. Thousands of CMP customers are now benefiting from other energy management programs: water heater wraps; low-interest, subsidized loans; motor and lighting rebates; energy audits and weatherization programs. Customer participation is essential to the success of these programs.

Therefore, we use focus groups and conduct test marketing to obtain customer input in developing our programs.

It is in everyone's best interest that the Company pursue conservation and load management alternatives that can be put in place for less than the equivalent cost of energy from new generation.

If you would like details on any of CMP's energy saving programs, please call 1-800-8-SAY-YES.

BILL OVERTON, the president of Marathon Realty, stands outside the development company's Bryant Pond headquarters.

This is your Chamber of Commerce

Each week, this column will spotlight a different member of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce. The purpose is to give some understanding about the various fields of endeavor of the Chamber members.

Marathon Realty is located on Main Street in Bryant Pond. It was established about a year-and-a-half ago, the Lake Christopher condos being their first project.

Bill Overton, president of Marathon Realty, has been in the area nearly two years. He was originally from the Boston area but came here from L.A. (Los Angeles, not Lewiston-Auburn). Mr. Overton had been in the security business prior to coming here. He had also been an actor for 15 years.

What's the connection between acting and developing real estate? "I can exhaust inner, creative juices being an actor, and find I can do the same with realty," he said.

Mr. Overton is excited to be in Maine creating vehicles for employment and giving others the opportunity to manifest their talents.

Future development plans for his company are the Millbrook Estates, the largest approved condo project in the area. He expects to begin building in the spring.

The project will have just four units per building. He is against high density, especially in Maine. At least half of the 15½ acres will be set aside for recreation, such as jogging, cross country skiing and canoeing on the river. "I firmly believe in recreation," he said.

One of the most exciting things that has happened to Mr. Overton lately was being elected by Governor McKernan as one of the 10 members of the Maine State Film Commission, which was created to lure motion picture, television and commercial production to Maine.

Mr. Overton is excited to know Maine has a Governor interested in the creation of jobs and will help him carry the banner. He has had a lot of support and help from the folks at Marathon, especially Jim Putnam—vice president—and his wife. He is also grateful to the Oxford Bank and Bethel Savings Bank for their help and encouraging support.

Mr. Overton hopes his developments will be approved by the local populace. "I like to think of myself as an artist, trying to paint as I go along, hoping that the public will approve and will not throw tin cans at the canvas."

Sen. George Mitchell says:

Several recent reports shed new light on the problem of human exposure to radon gas.

The Maine Radon Study Commission submitted a report to the State Legislature suggesting next steps in responding to the radon problem. In Washington, the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) has issued a report which confirms that radon poses a significant health threat and adds to our understanding of how radon affects human health.

The report to the State Legislature concludes that radon exposure is a problem in many areas of the state. The Maine State Department of Human Services reports that as many as 30 percent of homes tested in the state have radon in the air above the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) accepted levels.

Maine also has a problem with radon in water. Twelve to 15 percent of tests of radon in water exceed the state's recommended level.

Recommendations for responding to the radon problem include improving information and education programs, assisting communities in developing standards for new home construction which will prevent radon contamination, and surveying radon levels in school buildings throughout the state.

The NAS report removes any doubt about the serious health effects of radon. Scientists have known for many years that exposure to radon gas can cause lung cancer. But experts disagreed on just how serious a health threat radon really was.

The EPA has estimated that radon accounts for 5000 to 20,000 lung cancer deaths in the United States each year. Some scientists challenged these estimates as being too high and suggested that EPA generally overstated the health threats of radon. The NAS study confirms the EPA assessments of radon's health effects. The report placed the number of annual lung cancer deaths each year attributable to radon at about 13,000, within the range estimated by EPA.

The report also confirmed the EPA estimate of the risk to individuals of exposure to radon. The EPA recommends that action be taken to reduce radon levels indoors if the level exceeds 4 picocuries per liter of air. The EPA estimates that the chance of developing lung cancer over a lifetime of exposure to radon at this level is roughly between 1 in 20 and 1 in 100.

Another key finding of the NAS study is that smokers face a much greater risk from radon than nonsmokers, perhaps as much as ten times greater. According to the report, smoking does not appear to be simply an added risk, but can multiply the risk of radon.

I have pressed the EPA to expand programs responding to the radon problem for the past several years. In 1986, Congress enacted my legislation that required a national survey of radon problems. In 1987, I developed additional legislation providing for Federal grant assistance to states to get radon programs started and requiring a survey of radon in schools. This legislation was passed by the Senate in July of 1987 and I hope it will be enacted this year.

From Augusta

When people talk about Maine's economy, they often speak in terms of "two Maines." No one really believes that our state economy can be described so simply, but the "two Maine" concept allows us to discuss the differences that exist between northern and southern Maine, developed and undeveloped Maine, booming and sleeping Maine.

For approximately five months, members of the newly created Economic Development Committee set out to separate myth from reality about the existence of "two Maines." The Committee researched six distinct labor market areas in Maine. They conducted public hearings in Skowhegan, Belfast, Sanford and Dover-Foxcroft. They circulated in-depth questionnaires to municipal officials, businesses, human resource agencies, newspaper editors, educators and others—all for the purpose of finding out why some parts of Maine are growing and others are not.

Last Friday, the chairman of the Economic Development Committee held a State House press conference to present their findings and legislative package. Their report is clearly different from most economic development reports because it is people-oriented. It concentrates less on buildings and machinery and more on the barriers that Maine people face when trying to achieve economic success in their own lives. Here are some of the proposals:

"An Act to Promote Economic Development in the State by Enhancing Employment Opportunities for Maine People."

The Committee found that many unemployed people who are receiving state assistance want to work, but are discouraged because they will not receive any medical benefits if they are employed. This can be a very serious consideration, particularly for parents with small children.

They also found that many hard working Maine citizens work for employers who cannot afford to provide medical insurance for their employees or their employees' families. Because non-group insurance is so expensive, many employees are forced to go without coverage. Just one accident or illness can thrust them into poverty and, as a result, into social welfare programs.

This bill would allow eligible Medicaid recipients to continue receiving medical insurance benefits while participating in job training programs and for the duration of job probationary periods. In addition, the committee is calling for the creation of medical insurance groups for persons working for employers who cannot afford to provide medical insurance for their employees.

"An Act to Enhance the Ability of the State to Respond to the Information Needs of Maine Businesses."

The "Business Answers" programs have been extremely popular. It allows Maine small businesses to avoid red-tape by providing one-stop shopping for information and assistance. This bill would make the Business Answers program available to more Maine businesses and economic development agencies.

"An Act to Make Housing More Affordable to Maine Citizens."

Many areas of Maine are experiencing severe shortages of affordable housing. In fact, some businesses have already expressed hesitancy about expanding or locating in Maine, because their employees would not be able to find decent, affordable housing. This bill calls for the development of comprehensive plans for municipalities or regions to develop affordable housing for low and moderate income households. It also would allow the Maine Housing Authority and municipal housing authorities to offer low-interest or no-interest loans to contractors who agree to construct or rehabilitate housing for low and moderate income households.

These are only a few of the proposals put forth by the Economic Development Committee. I will report on other major proposals in a future column. Have a great week!

Senator R. Donald Twitchell

Woodstock residents favor one-acre minimum for single-family lot size

Woodstock residents—at least those who completed their Comprehensive Plan survey—like their town pretty much the way it is, and they're willing to take steps to keep it that way.

One hundred and forty two surveys, a little over 20 percent of those distributed, were returned to the Comprehensive Plan Committee.

Respondents felt strongly that the character of the town should be preserved, and that its natural resources—especially its lakes and ponds—should be protected.

The respondents overwhelmingly described the town as rural or village, with attractive views, woods, fields and open spaces. Most (87 percent) felt that it was very important to maintain this character.

Most also felt that the town's physical beauty and natural resources were economic strengths. To maintain these assets, 65 percent wanted more protection for streams and wetlands, 72 percent wanted to see stronger land-use regulations, and 70 percent felt the town should have a minimum lot size requirement for single-family building lots.

Eight-four percent also felt that the cost of increased town services should be taken into account when evaluating development proposals.

On the down side, respondents were not happy with the level of police protection provided by the Oxford County Sheriff's Department. The lack of sewer and septic disposal in the village area was also a cause of concern.

Respondents perceived a need for more rental housing and more homes that moderate-income families could afford to own.

The Highway Department got high marks, but many respondents favored the use of more hot top and less sand and seal for road repairs.

Respondents identified Rumford Avenue, Gore Road and Old County Road as the town roads most in need of repair. Because the response rate for the survey questionnaire was more than the 20 percent minimum required by the state, Woodstock's Comprehensive Plan Committee can use the data in drafting a Comprehensive Plan to present to town voters.

Two of the concerns that emerged in the survey may be addressed before that, however. The warrant for the upcoming Town Meeting already includes an article calling for a one-acre minimum house lot size and another article authorizing the town to widen and repave Rumford Avenue.

job training programs and for the duration of job probationary periods. In addition, the committee is calling for the creation of medical insurance groups for persons working for employers who cannot afford to provide medical insurance for their employees.

Real estate

seasonal lakefront camps are also in a favorable—but somewhat less so—position, she said.

As for condominium sales, Bill Crampton, who is in charge of real estate at Sunday River Ski Resort, reports slackened, but continuing, interest. "We're getting a lot of first-time people coming in here looking," he said. "It's not going as fast as it was, but it's still moving." He said the skiway corporation is going ahead with its plans for the upscale Locke Mountain townhouses and still plans to begin construction this spring on the vanguard of the 240-unit condominium complex now in the permitting process. [See previous articles in The Citizen on these plans.]

Mr. Crampton said sales are being helped by the fact that mortgage rates are relatively low—8½-8¾ percent over 30 years—and that the condominiums are still appreciating in value.

Mrs. Kelly noted, however, that there are a lot of condominiums on the market because a lot of people purchased them for re-sale and priced them higher than the market would bear. She said as long as the skiways keep construction prices reasonable, the market for re-sale will be weak.

Mrs. Kelly said the strongest market at the moment is probably for single-family homes, but few developers are building such homes—probably, she said, because the cost of land is so high that the best return is from multi-family housing.

She concluded that so far as the overall real estate market goes, "In general, it's flattened out."

But she did not see a bust following the boom. "I see more development," she said, "when the golf course gets finished, when the airport gets finished."

Mrs. Gillies agreed that the local real estate market was not about to nose-dive. "If you look at Bethel in comparison to other towns in western Maine it might look [overbuilt], but that's not the right context. . . . If you look at Bethel and compare it to other ski towns, we're not overbuilding."

So far as Mrs. Gillies is concerned, the cooling of the pace of buying and selling is a good thing. "I enjoy working in a calmer atmosphere. Before, people were grabbing and re-selling. The buyers we're getting now are more committed [to the area]."

While the buying and selling in the local area cooled this past year, real estate sales in the Rumford area to the north and in the Oxford Hills area to the south were still increasing. Norway noted 335 transfers last year, up from 324 the year before. Rumford recorded 291 transfers, up from 229 the year before.

Woodstock residents favor one-acre minimum for single-family lot size

Woodstock residents—at least those who completed their Comprehensive Plan survey—like their town pretty much the way it is, and they're willing to take steps to keep it that way.

One hundred and forty-two surveys, a little over 20 percent of those distributed, were returned to the Comprehensive Plan Committee.

Respondents felt strongly that the character of the town should be preserved, and that its natural resources—especially its lakes and ponds—should be protected.

The respondents overwhelmingly described the town as rural or village, with attractive views, woods, fields and open spaces. Most (87 percent) felt that it was very important to maintain this character.

Most also felt that the town's physical beauty and natural resources were economic strengths. To maintain these assets, 65 percent wanted more protection for streams and wetlands, 72 percent wanted to see stronger land-use regulations, and 70 percent felt the town should have a minimum lot size requirement for single-family building lots.

Eighty-four percent also felt that the cost of increased town services should be taken into account when evaluating development proposals.

On the down side, respondents were not happy with the level of police protection provided by the Oxford County Sheriff's Department. The lack of sewer and septic disposal in the village area was also a cause of concern.

Respondents perceived a need for more rental housing and more homes that moderate-income families could afford to own.

The Highway Department got high marks, but many respondents favored the use of more hot top and less sand and seal for road repairs.

Respondents identified Rumford Avenue, Gore Road and Old County Road as the town roads most in need of repair.

Because the response rate for the survey questionnaire was more than the 20 percent minimum required by the state, Woodstock's Comprehensive Plan Committee can use the data in drafting a Comprehensive Plan to present to town voters.

Two of the concerns that emerged in the survey may be addressed before the town's next election. The warrant for the upcoming Town Meeting already includes an article calling for a one-acre minimum house lot size and another article authorizing the town to widen and repave Rumford Avenue.

job training programs and for the duration of job probationary periods. In addition, the committee is calling for the creation of medical insurance groups for persons working for employers who cannot afford to provide medical insurance for their employees.

"An Act to Enhance the Ability of the State to Respond to the Information Needs of Maine Businesses."

The "Business Answers" programs has been extremely popular. It allows Maine small businesses to avoid red-tape by providing one-stop shopping for information and assistance. This bill would make the Business Answers program available to more Maine businesses and economic development agencies.

"An Act to Make Housing More Affordable to Maine Citizens."

Many areas of Maine are experiencing severe shortages of affordable housing. In fact, some businesses have already expressed hesitancy about expanding or locating in Maine, because their employees would not be able to find decent, affordable housing. This bill calls for the development of comprehensive plans for municipalities or regions to develop affordable housing for low and moderate income households. It also would allow the Maine Housing Authority and municipal housing authorities to offer low-interest or no-interest loans to contractors who agree to construct or rehabilitate housing for low and moderate income households.

These are only a few of the proposals put forth by the Economic Development Committee. I will report on other major proposals in a future column. Have a great week.

Senator R. Donald Twitchell

seasonal lakefront camps are also in a favorable—but somewhat less so—position, she said.

As for condominium sales, Bill Cramton, who is in charge of real estate at Sunday River Ski Resort, reports slackened, but continuing, interest. "We're getting a lot of first-time people coming in here looking," he said. "It's not going as fast as it was, but it's still moving." He said the skiway corporation is going ahead with its plans for the upscale Locke Mountain townhouses and still plans to begin construction this spring on the vanguard of the 240-unit condominium complex now in the permitting process. [See previous articles in The Citizen on these plans.]

Mr. Cramton said sales are being helped by the fact that mortgage rates are relatively low—8 1/4-8 3/4 percent over 30 years—and that the condominiums are still appreciating in value.

Mrs. Kelly noted, however, that there are a lot of condominiums on the market because a lot of people purchased them for re-sale and priced them higher than the market would bear. She said as long as the skiways keep construction prices reasonable, the market for re-sale will be weak.

Mrs. Kelly said the strongest market at the moment is probably for single-family homes, but few developers are building such homes—probably, she said, because the cost of land is so high that the best return is from multi-family housing.

She concluded that so far as the overall real estate market goes, "In general, it's flattened out."

But she did not see a bust following the boom. "I see more development," she said, "when the golf course gets finished, when the airport gets finished."

Mrs. Gillies agreed that the local real estate market was not about to nosedive. "If you look at Bethel in comparison to other towns in western Maine it might look [overbuilt], but that's not the right context."

If you look at Bethel and compare it to other ski towns, we're not overbuilding."

So far as Mrs. Gillies is concerned, the cooling of the pace of buying and selling is a good thing. "I enjoy working in a calmer atmosphere. Before, people were grabbing and re-selling. The buyers we're getting now are more committed [to the area]."

While the buying and selling in the local area cooled this past year, real estate sales in the Rumford area to the north and in the Oxford Hills area to the south were still increasing. Norway notched 335 transfers last year, up from 324 the year before. Rumford recorded 291 transfers, up from 229 the year before.

Woodstock

At their meeting last week, the selectmen declined to authorize the hiring of a clerk. They did, however, volunteer the services of the town manager to deal with the paperwork if one of the board members would take minutes.

The Planning Board turned this option down, arguing that the town manager was already overworked, and that they had been told by John Maloney, of AVCOG, that town managers should not become involved in planning board activities.

"That would just be inviting another bottleneck," board member Clifford York said of the selectmen's proposal.

Board members expressed concern that their action in suspending meetings would be perceived as confrontational, but with Mrs. Hurd's resignation, which took effect at the end of the meeting, they felt there was no way they could conduct business.

Woodstock's selectmen have tentatively proposed that the town's 1988 budget include a salary of $5 per meeting for Planning Board members.

Planning Board members present at last week's meeting agreed to forego that salary if the money could be used instead to pay a clerk.

Such an arrangement, however, would have to be approved by the selectmen and by voters at the Town Meeting in March.

Bethel officials select finalists for chief's post

Bethel officials met behind closed doors Monday night with the two finalists for the police chief's post, vacant since last June.

Town Manager Rodney Lynch said both men are from Maine. He would not say from what towns. The two were among the five candidates interviewed two weeks ago. Those five were selected from among a group of 15 applicants—the second group of applicants town officials have looked at. The two finalists selected from the first group of 15 applicants both declined the job.

Following the interviews Monday night, Mr. Lynch and the selectmen decided which man they preferred for the job and asked Maine Municipal Association to check references of the candidate. (MMA has been hired by town officials to organize the police chief search, at a cost of $1,500.)

Mr. Lynch said he has not yet made an offer to the top candidate pending review of his references.

School board

severe alternatives now facing students who don't go on the trip followed the parents' comments and appeared to dispel the impression that the sophomores were being forced to participate. He also explained that money was available to help parents who couldn't afford the $25 fee for the course, and that the school would help supply required clothing.

Board member comments followed, and a number of members expressed sympathy with the parents' concerns. "I'm a strong believer in Outward Bound," said Merton Brown, of Bethel, "but it's definitely not for everyone."

The comment drew applause. Mr. Brown also noted that he had spoken with one father who admitted that his concern about the trip stemmed from the knowledge that his daughter "cannot imagine not curling her hair for five days."

"She's someone who could really use this," Mr. Brown commented. Other board members were critical of the way the matter had been communicated.

"I'm not real happy with the way the whole thing came down," said Richard Crandall, of Bethel. "I first heard about it in Prim's, and then again in the post office. And I still don't know if it's mandatory."

Superintendent Craig reviewed how the administration had attempted to communicate with board members and parents about the trip. Board members Eva Twitchell, of Woodstock, and Raymond Harrington, of Greenwood, both acknowledged they were informed about the project.

The superintendent then complained that miscommunication was inevitable when so few parents or board members showed up for meetings on projects such as this.

The apparent resolution achieved at Monday night's meeting, however, was not brought about so much by improved communication as it was by the ad-

FOOD DISTRIBUTION IN BETHEL FEB. 4 AT AMERICAN LEGION

The U.S. Department of Agriculture and Community Concepts, Inc., of South Paris, will distribute cheese, rice, butter and powdered milk to eligible individuals and families Feb. 4. The distribution will take place at the American Legion hall, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

An eligible family of two or less will receive one pound of butter, five pounds of processed cheese, two pounds of rice and four pounds of powdered milk. Families of three or four members will receive twice that amount, and larger families three times that amount.

Last year, in Androscoggin and Oxford counties, 288 tons of surplus food was distributed to 7,558 low-income families.

ministration's mitigating the consequences for non-participation to the point where parents no longer felt that their children were being forced to go on the trip.

In other matters Monday night, the board approved second and final readings of policies on AIDS/HIV and on minimum enrollment requirements for advanced secondary classes.

Members also reviewed the timetable for preparing the budget for the coming year, and they set April 25 as the date for the district's annual budget meeting.

In personnel matters, the board voted to accept the resignations of Roy Silver, of the high school composite room (effective at the end of the current school year), of Natalie Timberlake as coordinator of pupil personnel services (effective August 1988), and of Alice Stevens as part-time Telstar composite room aide (effective immediately).

The snow piling up outside, the directors voted to postpone a scheduled discussion of board goals.

Androscoggin R. group hopes to be able to pour cement for landing soon

The Friends of the Androscoggin held a board of directors meeting Tuesday, Jan. 19, at Telstar Regional High School. Officers elected for 1988 were: chairman, Steve Wright, of Newry; vice-chairman, Bernie Michaud, of East Bethel; secretary, Cathy Newell, of Bethel; treasurer, Ken Bohr, of Bethel; and clerk, Gordon Gillies, of Bethel. Other board members attending were Arthur Gilbert, of West Bethel, and Steve Rhodes, of Bethel.

Mr. Rhodes reported for the Public Access sub-committee, which reviewed a number of possible boat launch sites last fall. The goal remains to have cement ready to pour at a viable site as soon as possible and the board has arranged with Craig Tenbrook, rivers coordinator for Parks and Recreation, for him to come to Bethel on Feb. 2 for a meeting and tour with the subcommittee and an evening meeting with the membership at Telstar.

He will be asked to comment on sites and to provide information on funding, cooperation between agencies, and state/local participation in projects.

State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) is working with Dana Conners of DOT regarding the Rte. 2 picnic area site and will provide an update at the next meeting.

A river flotilla will be planned by Friends of the Androscoggin for late May or June, possibly in conjunction with a fishing derby, with the help of local fish and game groups.

Friends of the Androscoggin hopes to revive the Androscoggin River canoe race in July.

Upcoming programs on fish-stocking programs by the state and a detailed report on river conditions were suggested and will be scheduled as speakers are available.

The board agreed to set the annual dues for the group at $5, which will cover mailing expenses for minutes. Anyone who is interested in becoming a member of Friends of the Androscoggin may con-

CABIN FEVER CLASS TO MAKE FOLK MAGNETS

Folk Art Magnets will be the subject of a one-session Cabin Fever Special class to be held on Monday, Feb. 1. It is sponsored by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program. Debby Dohrmann and Vicki Rackliffe, of Bethel who operate a home-based craft business, will be the instructors for the evening.

Those attending will make a variety of stenciled and painted wooden magnets. A $2 lab fee will be charged, in addition to the $3 registration fee. To enroll, call the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780.

Planning Board approves video store

The Bethel Planning Board, meeting last Thursday after snow cancelled its Wednesday meeting, approved a change of use permit under the Site Plan Review Ordinance for the proposed new video store, on Rte. 2.

The store will be set up in what used to be the Crow's Nest gift shop. Additional parking spaces will be added to the side of the building.

A public hearing on the change of use was held earlier in the month and rumors about possible alcoholic beverage sales on the premises were put to rest. There will be no such sales, the spokesman for the project said.

The planners also worked on the Myers' project—condos on the Sunday River Road—and the Pleasant River Motel project—addition of condos on the lot. The planners were not yet satisfied with either application.

Chairman Reggie Brown said he hopes to have a replacement for retired board member Don Eddy by the next meeting, Feb. 3. He also hopes to have an administrative assistant by then. He and the town manager interviewed two candidates for the job last week.

High Street

By VIVA WHITMAN

Not a very sunny morning as I set down to type this column. Snow and rain yesterday made for slippery traveling, but still had a lot of traffic going down High Street. I am so glad we haven't been hit by the terrible weather that has plagued the area over so many of the states in the country. Just seeing the pictures of the storm at work with waves so high, made me glad I was in Maine and not in California, and the snow and wind in the other states didn't thrill me at all, either. We can all be thankful that we haven't been hit by the weather here and just hope and pray that we don't in the future. Winter isn't over yet and can play many tricks on us before it is over. We'll just have to hope for the best.

Got back home on Sunday after being out at my daughter's home down in California. She had such a busy week of vacation for adult education that she needed help, so was there for her. She took me to the doctor's when I needed to go and on that way, we helped one another. I was very tired, and with everything quiet on Sunday afternoon, I could hardly keep my eyes open. Russell was tired also. He had gone dancing Saturday night with Peggy and not getting home very early made him very tired. So it was quiet and peaceful around here.

Got up on Monday to see some very icy roads out here and folks traveling very slow. With the salt and sand put on the roads, the snow seemed to melt away most places, but heard of quite a few fender benders around the area. We didn't venture out at all, even though it was the night for Grange at Bryant Pond. The roads didn't look that bad here but we didn't know what might be going on in other places, so stayed home.

Tuesday was my day to go to North Bridgton and to Fryeburg, or so I thought. I got a call just before it was time to leave that the dentist in Fryeburg didn't have my teeth back, so didn't have to head out as early as we had thought. The roads were quite clear of ice and no trouble getting to my appointment with Dr. J. J. He is happy I get my teeth seen to see if it will help my jaw and the rest of my head as well. It isn't much fun being dizzy most of the time, and other medication that I have used didn't seem to help at all, so am hoping this does.

Peggy had to go to town to see the chiropractor early on Wednesday morning. She wanted to go and get back before it started to snow, if possible, and did just that. When it started to snow, it really snowed for a while, but soon let up some. Got some rain and it was getting slippery, last evening. I helped Russell a little to make a special cake to take up to Grace's birthday party. She didn't know there was to be one and thought we had all forgotten her birthday, according to what Lawrence said. However, all her children came, as well as Russell and I. Peggy was there as she is staying there during the winter months. She had made Grace a lovely birthday cake, so cake and cream were served. I watched all enjoy the treat but didn't try to have any as I knew what the results would be. It is hard to go to parties because of not being able to have anything with milk, wheat or eggs in it, as well as some other food items. I have gotten used to it pretty much now, though, so don't mind as bad as I used to.

Grace had several nice gifts given to her and some that will be late, but that doesn't matter as she knows everyone cares and that is what counts the most. Her daughters, Polly, Beverly and Hilda, were there for the party, as well as her sons, David and Alvin, with their wives and Alvin's girls, Misty and Karen. A small but nice party. Others didn't come because of the traveling conditions.

I had hoped to wake up to clear skies this morning as I am supposed to go to Fryeburg to get my teeth that I couldn't get on Tuesday. I haven't gotten outside as yet to see what the traveling will be but hope for the best.

The benefit dance for Richard Felt was quite a success. I am glad for him as it was most difficult when one is laid up and can't earn a living. He hopes to be back able to at least play music for dances by this week and I hope it comes true for him. Russell and Peggy told me they went up to visit while I was in Lewiston at my daughter's home. Knowing that folks care helps one to be able to get over their troubles easier, so hope it has helped him.

Can't see as the weather has changed much since I sat down to type, but if it warms up enough it won't seem so bad. No cancellations where school is concerned so guess they don't look for too bad a day of traveling. Everyone take care and drive carefully.

Franklin Grange #124 was cancelled on Monday because of the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Glines, Jonathan and John, were weekend guests of her mother, Helen Ring.

The Woodstock Senior Citizens will meet on Thursday, Feb. 4, at the town hall. There will be a potluck dinner. Each one please bring either a hot dish, salad, or dessert and their own place setting. Anne Crockett and Kay McAllister are the dinner committee. Program in charge of Charlotte Cole.

The Universalist Fellowship Club will meet at the church on Friday, Feb. 5. They will go to Gould Academy for a play by Carol Fiske.

Lincoln Day Dinner tickets on Saturday, Feb. 27, at the Bethel Inn Conference Center, Bethel, are on sale. Evelyn Bean is selling them for the town of Woodstock. The dinner is sponsored by the Oxford County Republican Committee; time is 7 p.m.

Bonnie Fox appointed E. Stoneham postmaster

Ray Stewart, general manager of the Manchester (N.H.) Postal Division, this week announced the appointment of Bonnie Fox as postmaster of East Stoneham. She will be sworn in Feb. 10.

Mrs. Fox was selected on merit, following the competitive procedure established by the U. S. Postal Service.

A graduate of South High School, in Worcester, Mass., Postmaster Fox originally joined the Postal Service in 1961 as a substitute rural carrier, in Bryant Pond. Prior to her appointment as postmaster of East Stoneham, she served as a regular rural carrier in East Stoneham, Bethel and Bryant Pond.

Postmaster Fox and her husband, Lawrence, and their sons, Brent and Dean Angevine, reside in Lovell. They have three other sons: Raymond and Troy Fox, who both reside in So. Paris, and Forrest Angevine, who lives in Danielson, Conn.

JACKSON-SILVER POST NEWS

Members of the American Legion Post #68 of Locke Mills met Thursday night, Jan. 21. Definite plans were made at this meeting for an Oyster Stew Supper to be held at the Legion Hall, Wednesday, Feb. 17, at 7 p.m. Members of the Bethel Legion Post, along with the Auxiliary, are invited to be guests at the supper.

At the next regular business meeting of the Post, Thursday, Feb. 4, a ham supper will be given to the members of the bingo crew to show the appreciation to this group for all their faithful work. A brief business meeting will precede the supper.

It was felt that acknowledgement should be made of the 90th birthday of one of the oldest members, Comrade Alanson Cummings, on Jan. 20. Mr. Cummings was one of the original members of the Post when it was formed in 1919. He is a veteran of both World War I and World War II. Through the years of his membership he has been a most faithful participant in the many and varied activities of the Post and is still very active today. The Post is truly indebted to this Comrade for these years of faithful service as well as for the wisdom of his counsel from time to time based on his many long years of membership. The Post extends to him its most heartfelt best wishes at this special time.

FISHING DERBY STARTS

The 3rd Annual Fishing Derby, sponsored by the Waterford Fish and Game Association, will be held Jan. 30 and 31. The weigh-in station will be at the town beach, Keoka Lake, 8 a.m. until sunset. Prizes for largest fish in various species will be awarded.

Tickets are available from Fish and Game members or at area sport shops.

Democrats gearing up for active political year

A fund-raising dinner was held by the Bethel Democratic Town Committee on Jan. 16 to benefit the re-election campaign of State Rep. Jeff Mills.

Rep. Mills has served in the Legislature since 1983 and is a member of the Transportation Committee. He represents one of the largest districts in the Legislature, extending from Lovell to Rangeley.

The potluck dinner, which was held at the West Parish Congregational Church, was followed by a meeting of the Oxford County Democratic Committee, which was addressed by Neal Allen, Maine coordinator for the Al Gore presidential campaign. The supper committee included Mary Keniston, Marvin Owning, Paul McGuire, Robin Lee, Merton Brown, Ginger and Gene Kelly, Irene Mills, Hazel Newell, Leah Deegan, Celia Gorman, Maxine Brown and Cathy Newell.

Maine Democratic caucuses will be held on Sunday, Feb. 28. The Bethel and Greenwood caucuses will be held at 3 p.m. at Telstar High School, according to Bethel Democratic Town Committee Chairman Paul McGuire and Greenwood Chairman Leah Deegan.

Any other neighboring towns that would like to hold their caucuses at Telstar should contact Mr. McGuire, at 824-2365.

The Maine caucuses provide an opportunity for Democrats to register support for presidential candidates through the election of local delegates and alternates to the Maine State Democratic Convention, to be held in Portland in May.

In a related development, Rep. Mills has been elected chairman of the Credentials Committee of the Maine Democratic Party for the 1988 State Convention, which will be held in Portland in May. The Credentials Committee is charged with ruling on challenges to entire municipal delegations to the State Convention as well as on challenges to individual delegates and alternates. The 16-member committee is composed of one representative from each county.

Kathleen Watson Goodwin, of Bath, will serve as vice-chair.

Rep. Mills, a three-term legislator, is a member of the Maine State Democratic Committee, where he serves as a member of the Finance Committee and is chairman of the "Dollars for Democrats" project. He has been a delegate to the State Convention in 1984 and 1986, and was a delegate to the 1984 National Democratic Convention.

UNITED METHODIST WOMEN
The United Methodist Women have been active in recent months.

In November, at the regular meeting, guest speakers Pat Stevens, of Cape Elizabeth, Secretary of Program of Southern District, and Betty Fike, of Lewiston, spoke and showed slides of her three months volunteer work with "Red Bird Mission" in Kentucky. Several guests from South Paris Methodist church were present.

Harvest Fair was held Nov. 13 and 14 with great success. Also in November a double baby shower for Lisa Vonderheide and Jane Gamble was held.

The Annual Christmas Party was a potluck luncheon held Dec. 4 at the church dining room. Gifts were exchanged. Plans were made for 35 Christmas Baskets to be delivered Dec. 15.

The January meeting was held Thursday, Jan. 7 at the dining room, with Edna York presenting a beautiful meeting on Prayer and Self-Denial with "The Older Person" as subject.

Feb. 4 will be a meeting on crafts at 1:30 at the church. Hostesses are Hilda Stevens and Evelyn Reed.

Andover

By MARJORIE JODREY

Cloyd Martin was the sixth winner in the 20 week club of the Andover Telstar Seniors.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Deans have received word that their son, Gerald Deans, was discharged from the Army on Jan. 11, at Fort Riley, Kansas. His sister, Kimberly Deans, left Sunday to accompany him and his two daughters, Randi-Marie and Melissa Lynn. Mrs. Deans won't be discharged from the Army until March. They will visit a few days with his in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. James Pyrah, in Ashley, Pa., before arriving in town for a visit.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Coudage received a phone call telling them their parents had arrived Jan. 18 at Soldotna, Alaska. They left Andover on Jan. 10 and enjoyed good weather and an uneventful trip. They will visit while in Alaska with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Merrill and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Emerson, Sr. were in Lewiston on Tuesday for a doctor's appointment.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Willard Howard, a former Andover resident, who passed away Sunday, Jan. 17, at Cozy Inn Nursing Home.

There will be a public hearing on Monday, Feb. 1 at 7:30 p.m., in the town hall on the application of the Town of Andover for Community Development Block Grant funds.

The Rev. Hal and Linda Stone, guest missionaries, were speakers at the First Congregational Church on Sunday, Jan. 17. Special Music "In Christ There Is No East or West." Mission moments by Kathy Williamson, Special Collection for missions. A potluck luncheon was enjoyed after the service. On Saturday, Jan. 23, at 5:30 p.m., Trustees Public Supper. Greeters were Marge Bartlett, Kara and Ben. Deacon on call was William Crocker, 392-1811.

The children in Grades 3-6 of the Creative and Talented Program are organizing an "Art Exchange" with children in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. The children will make pictures about their lives and send them to Honduras children, who will send their own pictures back. In order to make this exchange possible the children are in the process of raising money. It will be used to buy art supplies for Honduran children, pay postage and customs tax. All children in the elementary school have been urged to contribute 25 cents to support this effort.

No school Friday, Jan. 28, teachers' workshop. Rank cards go home Jan. 29.

Woodstock Historical Society

Here is a quote from a famous statesman:

"If the human race wishes to have a prolonged and indefinite period of national prosperity, they have only got to behave in a peaceful and helpful way towards one another. Thus we may reach the shelter of a calmer and kinder age."

If anyone has some town histories other than Woodstock, Norway or Rumford they would like to donate to the museum, the Society would be most grateful.

The next meeting will be a "What's It?" night and an exchange of homemade valentines.

Alma Hewey arrived home Jan. 17 after being with her daughter, Louise Powell, Hale, for a few weeks.

Alfred Marston, Portland, and son Christopher, were weekend guests at Aunt Florence Hall's. They skied at Bethel on Saturday.

Julie White is ill at home with pneumonia.

Clayton Holman, Green River, Wyo., called on Dorothy Elliott recently.

Bus riders from the Manor on Wednesday were Catherine McGuire, Elizabeth Sennett, Dorothy Elliott and Gertrude Hutchins.

Kitty Fox, Bethel, visited Anne Fox recently.

Florence Hall and Gertrude Hutchins were shopping in Rumford on Monday.

Thought for the day: I always seem to encounter more folks who are concerned about their rights than their obligations.

QUILTING CLASS OFFERED

There will be a one-session quilting workshop on Wednesday, Jan. 27, from 6:30 to 8 p.m., on "Making Your Own Quilting Designs." The workshop will be held at Telstar High School, with Catherine Calef, of Dixfield, as the instructor.

The workshop, which will be sponsored by SAD #44 Adult and Community Education, will demonstrate how to cut designs, and will provide "hands-on" practice as students make a panel which they can later finish into a pillow. A lab fee of $2.50 will cover all materials needed. There is also a registration fee of $3. Mrs. Calef will also be instructing classes in "Finishing Touches" for projects on Feb. 3, and on "Applique" on Feb. 10. The applique class was originally scheduled for Jan. 20 but was postponed due to inclement weather. To enroll in any of the classes, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

ERIC WIGHT OFFERS SEMINAR ON INDIAN ARTIFACTS

"Indian Artifacts" will be the subject of a seminar and display by Eric Wight on Monday, Feb. 1, 7-9 p.m., at Telstar High School.

The seminar is sponsored by the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education program.

A retired game warden, Mr. Wight has been a collector of artifacts for many years. To enroll in the session, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

Temperatures dropped rapidly last Wednesday p.m. We had planned to attend a senior citizen special tendered by Adult Education, but as the wind kept howling louder, we decided to practice home health care by staying home. The temperature was above freezing during early afternoon, and 50 to 60 degrees colder by midnight. The cold spell lasted little more than two days. It only seemed like two weeks.

Reggie Edwards has recuperated enough to return to his job in Pineland. He has been under therapy since his operation last year.

Mr. Tibbets and crew, from Wilton, were in town looking for stumps to cut. The horrorscope for those born this month: don't cook bacon in the nude—better use a fry pan.

A 680-page book entitled "Iran-Contra Affair" has been distributed without charge or request. Included is a letter from Senator Mitchell's office stating his opinion. Presumably all this is at taxpayers' expense and it appears to me to be a sour grape operation.

Dick Jordan's son came up to check his camp last week.

Big auction at Gould

Once again the Gould Academy Parents' Association will hold its annual auction at Gould Academy, on Saturday, Feb. 6.

Last year's auction raised over $22,000 and is supporting three projects this academic year: the student/faculty exchange program with Costa Rica, Gould's Annual Four Points program, and a great issues forum that brings a variety of interesting and well qualified people to Gould to talk about the Constitution and U.S. Government.

This year's auction is called "Winter Fantasy" and will be held in Bingham Auditorium at 8 p.m. Over 100 items have already been received, with more donations arriving every day. Antiques, fine clothing, artworks, vacations, Red Sox and Celtics tickets, are just some of the many interesting and unusual items that will go on the block. Auctioneers will be faculty members Bill Cousins and Al Barth and they "guarantee" that all who attend will have fun and the opportunity to come home with a "gem."

Those interested in attending the auction should call the Gould Academy Alumni and Development Office, at 824-3598, for more information.

The Greenwood Historical Society will meet at the building on Main Street on Wednesday, Feb. 3, at 7:30 p.m.

The Greenwood Fire Department will meet at the Fire Station on Tuesday, Feb. 2, at 7 p.m., for the monthly business meeting.

Malcolm Dean is still filling the pulpit at the Locke Mills Union Church. At the annual church meeting it was decided to have a potluck fellowship supper the 1st Sunday of every month, beginning Feb. 7.

There will be a dance at the town hall Jan. 29, from 7 to 10:30 p.m., for the benefit of the Locke Mills Union Church Youth Group. It will be well chaperoned.

Bible studies have resumed Sunday evening at the parsonage. The time is 6:30 p.m. and Lynn Barton is leader.

Congratulations to Brian Hughes and Michelle Crockett who graduated from the CNA class instructed by Lyn Barton. John Mills went ice fishing at Belgrade Lakes last Saturday with Nick Lavorgna, of Rumford.

Caroline Roberts is recuperating slowly at her home following her recent surgery.

Weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gray Fuller were Mr. and Mrs. Eric Wardwell, Seabrook, N.H., Mary Poland and Ralph Loussaint, of Biddeford.

Lorraine Mills attended a meeting of the Women's Ministries at the home of A DEJECTED DRIVER LEAVES his wrecked semi last week on Rte. 26 in Grafton Notch. The wreck, caused by two Canadian rigs skidding on ice coming down through the notch, closed the road last Tuesday. Last Wednesday, after a wrecker from the Toronto area brought a replacement cab and performed repairs on the fuel line of the intact rig (in background), both drivers were able to continue on their way to Old Town with trailer-loads of toilet paper.

News from Adult Ed

Winter/Cabin Fever Special Term 44 Adult and Community Education classes got off to a good start despite lack of cooperation from the weather.

Get well cards were signed for several members. New members of Pomona are Elizabeth and Walter Bragg and Portia Gagne.

Donations have been made by the Committee of Women's Activities to the Grange Cottage and Kelly Farm Tuna. The contest for this spring is apple muffs. There will also be needlework and sewing contests.

The Grange voted a donation for the Junior Prize Fund to help purchase prizes for the Junior Grange project winners on the state level.

An agricultural program was presented by Bertha Benoit for Agriculture Chairman, Richard Felt, who was unable to be present.

Francis Conant gave the first charge of the installation ceremony. Jim Chandler, education coordinator for the Soil and Conservation District, presented a slide show, "Soil - We Can't Live Without It."

A relay race was enjoyed. Erlon Whitman, 84, related experiences in farming. He told of drying apples, being paid 15 cents a day for hoeing corn and $2.25 per day for a nine-hour day in a corn shop.

Lewis Woodward won the attendance drawing and Rose Carpenter, Randy Jack and Vernon Redding won the mystery march.

Bertha Benoit sang "Let There Be Peace on Earth," accompanied by Dot Canwell on piano.

State C.W.A. member Ruby Whitney spoke on C.W.A. work and the first that destroyed the Grange Cottage at Hinkle's School.

Next meeting, C.W.A. night, will be Feb. 2, at 7:30 at Oxford Grange Hall. A 6:30 supper will be served.

OXFORD POMONA GRANGE

The January meeting of Oxford Pomona Grange was held at Norway Grange Hall, preceded by a delicious supper.

Congratulations to the following students who have had perfect attendance for the first quarter:

Ms. Merrill's Grade 3: Kevin Bean, Jason Berry, Robert (Tony) Baker, Freeman Corriveau, Mary Harrington, Stacy Howard, Harmony Mills, Doreen Morin, Eric Rackliffe, Andrew Saunders, Sarah Seames, Nicole Westleigh;

Mrs. O'Meara's Grade 3: Jerry Bernier, Jennifer Buck, Parker Gray, Amy Hale, Albion Hill, Dareth Howard, Kellie Paradis, Eva Paul, Eben Smith, Alicia Taylor, Karen Wheeler, Jessie Wight;

Mrs. Wight's Grade 3: Timothy Adams, Jason Coolidge, Rachel Fogg, Julie Gross, Brian Inman, Travis Loughton, Carrie Mason, Jana Mason, Kyle Moran, Cathy Morgan, Clint Myers, Monica Rolfe, Deanna Ryerson, David Sweetser, Warren Thurston, Amy Wilson, Mandy Wing;

Ms. Howe's Grade 4: Jeffrey Angevine, Leah Bonnera, David Buck, Jessica Coolidge, Matthew Fowler, Erin Kailey, Kevin Marshall, Nathan McVey, Nathan Moore, Casey Parker, Tina Shriver, Caitlin Kavanagh;

Mr. Hoy's Grade 4: Monica Corriveau, Andrew Dennis, Hillary Harrison, Leroy Howard, Angela Levesque, Ryan Seames, Keith Stevens, Amanda Sysko, Cynthia Wheeler, Scott Tripp;

Mrs. Gilbert's Grade 4: Anneliese Bass, Quentin Baker, Benjamin Fogg, Amanda Gilbert, Adam Newell, Gabriel Perkins, Samantha Poland, Clinton Wakefield, Michael Walker, Wednesday Westleigh;

Miss Newcomb's Grade 5: Beth Craig, Lisa Haines, Rosalie Leonard, Kelly Lord, Christopher Rowe, Jeremy Smith, Koral Smith, Meredith White;

Mrs. Wheeler's Grade 5: Shye Buck, Esther Cramton, Heather Davis, Amy Howe, Esther Morin, Jaclyn Provencher;

Mrs. Barry's Grade 5: Jacob Bartholomew, Adam Chamberlin, Kendra Hutchinson, Petrine Nielsen, Amy Lynn Patten, Joel Riley, Jason Saunders, Laura Seames.

Mrs. Wight's 3rd graders wrote letters to Jessica McClure's parents. They read about Jessica falling in a well in their Weekly Readers.

Miss Merrill's third grade math contest has some graduates. Congratulations to these 16 graduates: Tony Baker, Axel Annis, Freeman Corriveau, Heather Gibbs, Stacy Howard and Andrew Saunders. Congratulations, also, to these 7-10 graduates: Kevin Bean, Doreen Morin and Sarah Seames. Nice work, kids!

Mrs. Garrison's composite room learned about Christmas celebrations around the world. The tradition in Sweden of rice pudding served with one almond hidden in it sounded nice! Matthew Fowler was the person who found the almond and according to Sweden's tradition is supposed to have good luck the following year. Hope it works for you in 1988, Matthew!

The "Rug Rat" downhill ski program is a great success again this year. There are 78 students from grades 2-5 skiing. Miss Newcomb reports over 85 students are participating in the x-country program. Both are extremely successful thanks to Gould Academy, Sunday River Ski Resort and some great volunteers.

NOTES FROM

Evans Notch District

White Mountain National Forest

Information is available in regard to planning for newly acquired lands on the White Mountain National Forest. The information enables the public to comment on these new acquisitions. The comments will help the Forest Service determine what uses are appropriate on the five tracts.

"We need the public to review preliminary management area assignments and comment whether, in their opinion, it correctly describes how the tracts should be managed," said Forest Supervisor Michael Hathaway. "Any suggestions would be useful in helping us in the final decision-making process," Mr. Hathaway added.

The five tracts of land were added to the White Mountain National Forest during the past year. Included are Pine Mountain, Washburn, Champion and Boothman, near Gorham, N.H., and Virginia Lake, near East Stoneham, Maine.

Since the tracts were acquired after the current Forest Plan was completed in 1986, management direction needs to be developed within the framework of the Plan.

Information for this planning effort can be obtained by calling District Rangers Gary Carr at Gorham, N.H. at 603-466-2713 or Chad Converse at Bethel, 824-2134.

Comments should be sent by Feb. 17 to: Forest Supervisor, P.O. Box 633, Lacombe, N.H. 03247.

Tree planting program

would help water quality

Lester Bailey, chairman of the Oxford County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced details on Conservation Reserve Program initiatives that provide incentives for greater tree plantings and for the improvement of water quality.

Filter strips—cropland areas 66-99 feet wide with a permanent cover next to streams and lakes—will be eligible for the program even if the soil erosion criteria are not met on cropland. This change will permit farmers to enroll their lands in the program as a cost-effective option to control non-point source pollution emptying into water resources.

Producers may submit offers during the upcoming Feb. 1-19 sign-up for either the 1988 or 1989 crop year.

Areas eligible for filter strips must be adjacent and parallel to streams or other water areas of not less than five surface acres and capable of substantially reducing damage by sedimentation and associated pollutants.

Those attending will learn how to identify basic constellations and will spend part of the evening outside using Telstar's telescope. Those attending should come with warm outdoor clothing. To enroll, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

STAR-GAZING COURSE

Star Identification will be the subject of a one-night workshop on Tuesday, Feb. 2, from 7 to 9 p.m., to be taught by Telstar High School's own "Mr. Wizard"—Tim Kersey.

Those attending will learn how to identify basic constellations and will spend part of the evening outside using Telstar's telescope. Those attending should come with warm outdoor clothing. To enroll, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780.

Equal Housing Opportunity

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the next monthly meeting will be held on Thursday, Feb. 4, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House beginning at 7:30 p.m. As this meeting is the annual historical film festival, three short films will be shown: Foxfire, Goodbye Billy and The Great Depression.

Foxfire is a film centered in the Appalachian section of the United States focusing on an innovative teacher and the magazine his students began which recorded the life and contributions of people in that area.

Goodbye Billy: America Goes to War, 1917-1918 deals with the American experience in World War I. Composed entirely of archival footage and old photograph recordings of songs and speeches, this film is not a record of politics, battles or strategies, but rather of America's emotional reactions to the war.

The Great Depression reveals something of the values and the psychology of the Great Depression of the 1930s, when people had to deal with a sense of personal failure as well as economic deprivation. Younger viewers especially will gain new insights into what this era meant to the average American. The meeting is open to anyone interested. Refreshments will be served.

Newest members of the Bethel Historical Society are Dale S. Brouse, Frazier Park, Calif. (life member), and Elizabeth Duplessie, Gray (senior member). Newest business member is Bethel Spa Motel and Shops, of Bethel. A hearty welcome and deepest appreciation is extended to these new additions on the Society rolls.

The Society has received a full page of publicity regarding its recent awards in the latest issue of Maine History News (Winter 1988 issue). Randall Bennett's book, Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to Its Historic Architecture, published by the Society in 1987 has received a glowing review in Maine Preservation News (Fall 1987 issue). Of the Oxford County book, Preservation News editor Charles Calhoun of Bowdoin College writes in the first paragraph: "Happy Oxford County! To have so good, so thorough, so intelligent a guide written to its historic architecture is cause for celebration—and envy, too on the part of the rest of the state, for I don't believe anything quite so comprehensive and authoritative has been published for any other county in Maine."

WILBER S. CLAY

Wilber S. Clay, 71, died Jan. 13, 1988 at a Portland hospital.

He was born in Lincoln, May 5, 1916, the son of Charles W. and Adella Doble Clay. He was graduated from Mattanawcook Academy, Lincoln, and Gould Academy, Bethel. He was a graduate of the New England Institute of Embalming, Boston.

He had been engaged in the funeral service business for more than 50 years in Bethel, Skowhegan and Lincoln. Mr. Clay established his own business in 1947 and semi-retired in 1979. He remained active in the business until his recent illness.

He was a member of various local organizations and had been active on various town committees. He was recently given a life membership to Maine Funeral Directors Association, having served as director and as treasurer. Mr. Clay had also served on the State Board of Funeral Service.

Surviving are his wife, Letitia Smith Clay, of Lincoln; a son, Hervey, of Lincoln; a daughter, Kathleen Clifford, of Haynesville; a brother, Reginald, of Lincoln; three sisters, Ruth Ludden, Carolyn Henderson and Barbara Russell, all of Lincoln; and six grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Clay, Stevens & Clay Funeral Home, in Lincoln, Jan. 16. Spring burial will be in the Lincoln Cemetery. Donations may be made in Mr. Clay's memory to a scholarship fund at Mattanawcook Academy, c/o Clay, Stevens & Clay Funeral Home, 3 Lee St., Lincoln, Maine 04457.

LULA E. MERRILL

Lula E. Merrill, 86, died last Friday, Jan. 22, 1988, at her home on the Flat Road, West Bethel, following a long illness.

She was born in Sumner, Sept. 9, 1901, the daughter of Alvin M. and Suzie (Davenport) Garey. She received her education in Sumner schools and married George Herman Merrill on Jan. 29, 1927. Mr. Merrill died Aug. 23, 1955.

Mrs. Merrill was a homemaker and had lived in the Mason/Weber Bethel area for many years. She was a member of the Bethel Senior Citizens.

Survivors include two sons, George F. Merrill, of Winn, and Warren R. Merrill, of Greenwood; two daughters, Alma Merrill, of West Bethel, and Florence Merrill, of Albany; a sister, Mrs. Ava Smith, of Bethel; 13 grandchildren and 16 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday from the Greenleaf Funeral Home, Bethel, with spring interment in the Mason Cemetery. In lieu of flowers, donations in her memory may be made to the Bethel Area Health Center, c/o Mrs. Muriel Whitney, P.O. Box 180, Bethel, Maine 04217.

ARMAND LALLAEE

Mr. Armand Lallae, 78, of Mill Road, Upton, died last Wednesday, Jan. 20, at the Androscoggin Valley Hospital, after being a patient for one day.

He was born May 10, 1909, in Thetford Mines, Quebec, Canada, the son of Arthur and Delia Belanger Lallae.

He had resided in Upton most of his life. He was a member of St. Pius the 10th parish.

He had been self-employed as a woodsman until his retirement 15 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Simone Kelly Lallae, of Upton; three sons, Roger Lallae, of West Stewartstown, N.H., Larry Lallae, of Upton, and Wilfred Lallae, of Upton; a daughter, Mrs. Lucille Lallae, of Dixville Notch, N.H.; 10 grandchildren, six great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

A Mass of Christian burial was celebrated Saturday morning at Guardian Angel Church. Interment will be in Upton Cemetery.
